TO BRIG. GEN. MEIGS, Quartermaster General, U. S. A.

SIR:—I beg leave to present the claims of Lt. James Gleason, who was my Regimental Quartermaster, and upon my taking command of the brigade about four months ago, became Acting Brigade Quartermaster. He has uniformly discharged his duties with energy and zeal, and managed his department skillfully, and given great satisfaction to myself and officers of my command. I may say that the position is one, as is known to you, General, the duties of which cannot be learned in a day, and the efficiency of the Department, so well managed by you, requires for its continual efficiency, the co-operation of intelligent and energetic subordinates in the army. Lt. Gleason thoroughly understands his business.

I have known Major James Gleason, present Chief Quartermaster Second Division, Second Army Corps, ever since his connection with the Quartermaster's Department, and take great pleasure in bearing testimony, not only to his energy and ability as an officer in the field, but to his general good character and standing among all with whom he came in contact in his varied business relations.

Captain James Gleason, Assistant Quartermaster Volunteers, late Major and Chief Quartermaster, Second Division, Second Army Corps, is to me personally known. He has served for a long time in the Army of the Potomac, and I have had many opportunities of seeing and judging of his merits as an officer of the Quartermaster's Department.

I have always heard him very highly spoken of, and from what I have seen of him, I consider him a reliable and valuable officer.

Understanding that he desires to remain in the military service of the United States, I take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities which Captain Gleason possesses, and trust that in the reorganization, his case will be favorably considered.
